Another Britisher Warned to Look Out For U-Boats
Near American Shore

(Associated Press Telegram)
An Atlantic Port, Sept. 15.—A British steamer that arrived here today reported that early yesterday morning a wireless "S. O. S." call was heard stating that the ship from which the message came was being attacked by a German submarine, the location being 65 miles east of Nantucket light ship. The name of the ship attacked did not come clear, only the word "Abby," presumably the last half of the name being caught.

Additional information that a submarine was in the western Atlantic was brought by another British liner which arrived here today from an English port. Officers of the liner said they had been instructed to watch for U-boats when nearing the American coast.

There are a number of vessels both sail and steam, of which the word "Abby" is a part of their names, now engaged in Atlantic trade.

The place where the ship reported she was being attacked, 65 miles east of Nantucket, is in the vicinity in which the German submarine U-53 sank five steamships on its visit to American waters in October, 1916.

The U-53 under command of Lieutenant Commander Hans Rose, appeared in Newport harbor on October 7 and after a three-hour stay put to sea. The next report of her activities was when the American steamer Kamsan, since sunk, was stopped off Nantucket, but permitted to proceed upon establishment of her identity. Then soon after came word of the sinking of the British steamers Strathmore, West Point, Kingston and Stephano; the latter a coastwise passenger vessel; the Dutch steamer Bloemendijk and the Norwegian steamer Christian Knudsen. Passengers from the Stephano and crews from the other ships were rescued by American destroyers.

Confirming the statement of the captain of the British ship that the S. O. S. call had been received by a representative of R. Lawrence Smith, Inc., agents of the vessels announced that the captain had stated that an American tank ship which arrived today and an American radio station also received the signals of distress.

YOUNG SICILIAN IS STABBED TO DEATH IN WILSON ST.; ASSASSINS UNKNOWN

Philippo Vagiarodo, 20 years old, a Sicilian, was stabbed to death some time Friday night or early Saturday morning in an alley off Wilson street between Fifth and Sixth streets by unknown assailants. His body was found this morning by Mrs. Bowman of Wilson street, who was enroute to a grocery store about 5 o'clock. The condition of the body indicated that he had been dead for several hours and it is the belief of the police department that he was attacked while on his way to his boarding place, 40 Wilson street. The body was found in the alley which passes this house.

Police are looking for three men, with whom Vagiarodo was seen talking Friday afternoon at Fourth and West Main street, Roy Baird of West Main street passed the quartet and heard heated words pass between Vagiarodo and the others. According to the report, one of the trio remarked "I'll get you tonight."

That Vagiarodo was the victim of a sudden attack from behind was indicated by the knife wounds and other circumstances. He had no opportunity to bring into use a keen-edged clasp knife which was found in his right coat pocket. A razor, carried in the breast pocket of his coat, showed no indication of having been used.

Mrs. Bowman observed the body lying in the alley soon after Mrs. Anna Bleber of Wilson street had noticed what she took to be a large bundle of rags lying at the same point. The police department was notified and Coroner Jackson in turn was called. The body was left undisturbed until after the coroner had been given an opportunity to examine the surroundings. Then the body was removed to the L. N. Bradley morgue in Fourth street.

An examination by Coroner Jackson disclosed sixteen separate knife wounds on Vagiarodo's body. One deep wound below the left ear penetrated the throat at great depth while two other wounds were found in the back, one over the right kidney. Either of these wounds would have caused death.

Other wounds were found on the left arm, the right and left shoulder, one directly over the breast bone and some slight wounds in the abdomen. When the body was found, the legs and arms were stiff and in a distorted position.

Police Chief Sheridan and patrolmen were on the scene promptly and started an early investigation. A number of Italians were brought to headquarters for examination but little information was gleaned from them.

FRENCH MINISTER ASKS EXPLANATION FROM THE SWEDES

(Associated Press Telegram)
Stockholm, Thursday, Sept. 13.—(Delayed.) Diplomatic representatives of entente governments here up to today had displayed only "natural curiosity" as to the Swedish government's view of the situation brought about by the disclosures from Washington regarding cable dispatches sent by the German minister to Argentina through the Swedish legation. From this attitude of waiting one action developed when the French minister, E. Thiebaut, called upon Foreign Minister Lindman with a formal request for an explanation of the incident on behalf of his government. The other representatives of the entente nations are expected to follow Minister Thiebaut's initiative. The American, British, French and Russian ministers held a meeting at which the situation was thoroughly canvassed.

News has been received here of the action of the Argentine government in giving Count Luxburg his passports, but the Argentine minister as yet has taken no formal steps in connection with the affair, contenting himself with an informal discussion of the situation.

Newspapers of pronounced German leanings urged the government to adopt a vigorous attitude toward the country whose practices they declare, in abusing the confidence of the Swedish government and involving a friendly nation in a highly embarrassing predicament, are unpardonable. The German statement, attempting to evade the issue by raising the question concerning America and giving no explanation or expression of regret for its own offense is declared by the entire press, including these newspapers, to be utterly unsatisfactory and again demand is voiced for a further statement from the German foreign office.

JAP ENVOYS GREETED,

(Associated Press Telegram)
Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—A program full of activity faced the members of the Japanese mission upon their arrival here today for a 13-hour stay. A committee headed by Mayor Smith met the mission and escorted the distinguished Japanese to Independence Hall where Roland S. Morris, recently appointed ambassador to Japan, formally welcomed them.

OHIO MAN ELECTED.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Kansas City, Sept. 15.—Louisville, Ky., was selected as the next convention city of the National Rural Mail Carriers' Association at the close of their meetings here yesterday. Claude A. Smith, Guthrie, Mo., was elected president, and W. J. Morrisson, Fremont, O., vice president.

An Italian employed at the Wehrle company plant was brought to headquarters on the theory that he had had trouble with the dead man but the investigation proved that his "enemy" was still living and this angle of the investigation was dropped.

People living near the scene of the murder heard no outcry during the night, which the police claim indicates that the victim was attacked suddenly and that if any resistance was made, it was quickly silenced. While there was no indication of robbery, Vagiarodo had no valuables in his pockets. The knife and razor and a few other trinkets were taken charge of by Coroner Jackson.

A post-mortem examination of the body will be held this afternoon or tonight under the direction of Coroner Jackson, to determine the nature of each of the wounds.

Vagiarodo was a fine specimen of young manhood. He was about five feet ten inches tall, was splendidly proportioned and in a fair fight would have been a formidable foe.

He has been in Newark and vicinity for four or five years. He had taken out his first naturalization papers.

The testimony of local Italians differ as to his nature and disposition. Joseph Glogozetti, fruit dealer in Third street, said he had become acquainted with him only recently, about three weeks ago, but formed the opinion that he was "a nice young fellow."

Italians who viewed the body at the morgue held a different opinion of the man. They declared he was quarrelsome and always was looking for trouble. However, this inclination has never before gotten him into any trouble with the authorities and he was not known to them, only in a general way.

He was employed at the Wehrle plant as a laborer and boarded at the home of Nick Manis, 47 Wilson street, the body being found in the alley near the Manis home. He formerly lived in Webb street.

The autopsy this afternoon revealed that the knife wound in the neck penetrated the throat inside while the wound in the center of the breast went entirely through the breast bone. These facts indicate that great strength was used by the assailant.

The theory of a "black hand" plot has been advanced because of the fact that both victims are but it is claimed that "black hand" workers use this method of marking their victims. It was also suggested that the assassins might have made these slashes to suggest such a plot.

Political Situation Clears
Rapidly While Army Re-

RECAPTURE THREE TOWNS
WON RECENTLY BY TEUTONS

Fate of Gen. Korniloff is Exciting Public Opinion—
Commission Will Act

(Associated Press Telegram)
Petrograd, Sept. 15.—General Korniloff, leader of the recent rebellion against the provisional government, and General Lokomsky, the commander of the northern front, who refused to take command of the Russian armies after Korniloff was deposed, have been arrested.

Russia's political crisis has been solved after an all-night conference. It was announced today by the Russian Official News Agency. A new cabinet has been formed and its composition will be made public tomorrow.

Russian forces yesterday defeated the German troops on the road to Pskoff, on the Riga front, and occupied the small town of Kronberg. The Russian war office announced today. The Russians also occupied the towns of Reitzen and Sisselau, which had been held by the Germans.

News of the arrest of General Korniloff was first conveyed in a telegram received by Premier Kerensky from General Alexieff, the chief of staff. So far only the following details have been received: "At 10 o'clock last night General Korniloff and Generals Lokomsky and Romanovsky and Colonel Pleustchevsky-Plinskzen were arrested."

The question of the probable fate of General Korniloff is exciting public opinion. Indications are that the government must face serious difficulties over the matter.

A feature of the conflict is the credible absence of bitter feeling and clamor for vengeance. Having established capital punishment at the front, however, the government must spare the rebel commander. The reproach that it executed common soldiers for less serious offenses, and it would be virtually impossible to impose the death penalty in the future. Against this are the facts of General Korniloff's brilliant services, his chivalrous and his personal character, and the happy circumstance that there has been no bloodshed so far.

There are indications that the government is seeking a way out. As an instance, M. Kishkin, the new minister of the interior, declares that (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1.)

ENTENTE ALLIES GRANT CONCESSIONS TO THE CHINESE

(Associated Press Telegram)
Peking, Monday, Sept. 10.—(Delayed.) Ministers of the entente powers at Peking have advised the Chinese foreign office that their governments are willing to waive the Boxer indemnity payments for five years. Russia waives only one-third of the first portion of the indemnity, requiring the remainder because of her financial straits.

The United States, it is said, probably will ratify a portion of the entente nations' plan but will not waive its portion of the Boxer indemnity which is necessary to maintain the Chinese students in America.

The entente countries also will grant to China the privilege of increasing her tariff to an effective 5 per cent, which will represent something like a 2 per cent rise. They will concede to China the right to send troops through the foreign concessions at Tien-Tsin, if necessary.

The Italian minister has withdrawn his request that Italy be given the rights to the Austrian concession at Tien-Tsin.

The motor's invention and rapid completion is regarded as one of America's biggest accomplishments since entering the war.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Amsterdam, Sept. 15.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, replying in a message to the Cologne chamber of commerce to one or more of a series of anti-Wilson protests from German organizations of all sorts that continue to be announced in the German press, is quoted in a telegram received by the Dutch News Agency as saying:

11 BILLION DOLLAR WAR CREDIT BILL MAY PASS TONIGHT

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Sept. 15.—Passage by night of the eleven-billion-dollar war credits bill seemed virtually certain when the senate today resumed debate on the measure, although lack of a quorum may prevent action should the point be raised. Average attendance yesterday was fewer than a dozen senators. Several amendments were added, among them being one increasing from one-seventh to one-fourth of percent as the cost of floating the bonds and war certificates and decreasing from one-tenth to one-twentieth of 1 per cent the allowance for the indebtedness certificates.

Amendments rejected included one to appropriate about $5,000,000 for advertising the new bonds, and another to require the allies to pay for the floating of bonds for their loans. Senator LaFollette's amendment limiting the life of the new bonds to 30 years and permitting their retirement after seven years, was rejected by the senate, 39 to 15.

Enters Sweeping Denial of
Charges Made By State
Department

SAYS IT'S AN EFFORT TO DISCREDIT THE GERMANS

State Department Surprised at Denial But is Not Anxious

(Associated Press Telegram)
Mexico City, Sept. 14.—Heinrich von Eckhardt, the German minister to Mexico, tonight made a statement denying everything in connection with the disclosures from Washington that he had been employing a former Swedish charge d'affaires to convey information to the Berlin foreign office. Von Eckhardt declared that he had never sent any communication through Folke Cronholm and that he never wrote any communication recommending Cronholm for decoration for his services to Germany.

Von Eckhardt further declared that he did not know Cronholm personally, only having met him at diplomatic receptions or through the offices of the introducers of ambassadors, or some such formal means. Von Eckhardt makes a formal denial of everything in connection with the Washington disclosures, and in reply to an assertion that Washington had full proof of his complicity declared that this was merely an American intrigue for the purpose of casting discredit on the representatives of Germany.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Sept. 15.—German Minister Von Eckhardt's denial that he used the Swedish charge d'affaires in Mexico City for transmitting messages to Germany or that he had written a letter recommending an award for those services arouses no anxiety at the state department where officials, although surprised at a sweeping denial, consider that their investigation determined the authenticity of the disclosures and that Von Eckhardt's letter speaks for itself.

PUBLISHED IN GERMANY.

Amsterdam, Sept. 15.—The three cablegrams sent by Count Luxburg, German minister to Argentina, to the German foreign office through the Swedish legation have finally been permitted to be published in the German press. Railroad detectives who investigated the affair reported that as the troop train was passing through Mingo Junction something was hurled at the train, presumably a stone, and that one window was broken. No one was sitting near the window and no one was injured, they reported.

It was reported from Steubenville last night that the train had been fired upon and that three soldiers had been wounded.

GEN. KORNILOFF UNDER ARREST; CABINET FORMED the government has decided not to take extreme measures against Korniloff as it does not wish to appear revengeful.

"The story," M. Kishkin said, "is so tangled that only an inquiry by a commission can elucidate the truth. We have reason to believe that the revolt was due to a misunderstanding with Korniloff's emissaries to Kerensky. Vladimir Lvov, who has not the reputation of being a responsible man."

The newly-completed cabinet again is a smelting pot. The newspapers report that representatives of the Social Democrats and the Social Revolutionists visited Premier Kerensky and announced their parties would withdraw if the Constitution Democrats were taken back into the ministry.

The story of the visit is not true. But M. Soskice, secretary to Premier Kerensky, who is a member of the council of the Social Revolutionist party, informed the Associated Press that the difficulty actually has arisen. Yesterday committees of both parties drew up identical resolutions declaring it would be impossible to collaborate with Premier Kerensky if Constitutional Democrats were made ministers, but voting on the resolutions has been postponed until this evening, and there is every hope of an agreement.

Both parties accept the principle of a coalition cabinet and have no objection to Constitutional Democrats becoming ministers on condition that they immediately leave that party.

Secretary Saksice added, that Premier Kerensky now is in excellent health, despite the fact that throughout the recent crisis he has worked 18 hours daily.

Judging from the tone of press comments, party and individual expressions of opinion which are raining in, the Korniloff episode has had the effect of quickening interest in the war and convincing the public that only a well-disciplined army with a vigorous fighting program can save Russia. General Palohinsky, the new commander of the troops in the Petrograd district, in an interview, assures the public that the revolt "has had not the slightest unfavorable influence on the fighting capacity of our troops."

Four of the men whose names appeared on the list issued yesterday by the draft board as being the ones to go from this city on the 40 per cent required, have been taken off the list and four alternates will replace them.

David Loar, who failed to file exemption claims, although entitled to them, because he thought it necessary to have money enough to hire an attorney, was exempted by the local board today. They acted under a new ruling which permits a local board to reopen a case where they think a discharge is justifiable. Loar had a wife and two small children, aged 2 and 4 entirely dependent upon him.

The names of Carl B. Handel, Fred T. Howell and Frank O'Shaughnessy were removed from the present list, as they have made appeals and the district board has made no report on their appeal.

The alternates who will replace these men are Merrill Trenton Kemp, Ralph Atkins, Richard G. Schafer and Merle Thompson Orr.

FRIDAY CROWD AT FAIR WAS LARGEST IN RECENT YEARS

The attendance at the Licking county fair Friday was over 15,000, there being over 12,000 general admission tickets sold, which does not include the membership tickets or those left up in the business district at one of the drug stores.

The weather was ideal. The gate-men and officers had their hands full taking care of the hundreds of machines that were handled at the park and it was owing to the vigilance exercised by the officials that no accident occurred.

It was the largest Friday crowd in years, in fact the attendance for the entire four days exceeded all expectation. A statement will be made later by Secretary Harry D. Hale and Treasurer O. G. Warrington.

The automobile display was undoubtedly one of the best ever seen on any county fair grounds in the state of Ohio. The concession men all did a good business and are anxious to get back again next year.

The racing was equal to that seen on some of the big tracks of the country and the value of the blooded horses at the local track ran far into the thousands.

Fair board officials are already planning for next year and there is talk of giving a night fair, with a small charge of admission, giving a big fireworks display and feature free acts.

In the races yesterday an unfortunate accident occurred in the 2:22 pace when Nellie Eason's bike caught another and turned over, throwing Driver Stanner from the seat. He was stunned for a time. Nellie Eason was hospitalized this evening. Nellie Baron was owned by John Nelson of Buckeye Lake.

The races yesterday were full of thrills and were greatly enjoyed.

SOLDIERS' MEDALS

Editor of the Advocate:—As I am a young country boy, I would like to see the medals the rest of the boys have been receiving. I thought I would write and ask you to send me one and my brother, who is a private in the 10th Cavalry, also. His address is G. B. Williams, R. 2, S. E. Arkansas, Box No. 7, near postoffice New York City. Yours truly, R. M. Warren, Co. B, 10th Cavalry, Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala.

Editor of the Advocate:—I received your medal and want to thank you and the citizens of Newark and Licking county for presenting it to me. I think it is grand of the citizens of Newark to take such an interest in the soldier boys of Newark. It shows they think something of the boys, who will no doubt see service before many months, but I sincerely hope the medal, for the soldiers will never have to be used for identification. We like it very much down here in Alabama. The country is terribly hot down here, but we go through it all for our country. Thanking you again for my medal.—I remain, yours truly, Carl Verheyen, Bat. A, Third Ohio P. A., Camp Sheridan, Alabama.

Editor of the Advocate:—I received the medal sent me by you as a token of appreciation to the boys of Licking county who have joined the colors, from the people of their county. Words fail to express the pleasure it affords me to receive this remembrance. I am glad to be able to say I am from Licking county, knowing the patriotism manifested by the people of that county in responding to the calls made on them by the government during the present struggle. I know they will be willing to continue to make even greater sacrifices, if need be, in order that the world may be made safe for democracy. It is not only the ones in the service, that are making sacrifices, but also mothers, fathers, wives, children and friends left at home. I have been assigned to the Remount Depot which is five miles from Camp Sheridan. The government is planning to care for from 5,000 to 10,000 horses and mules at this place. Sincerely yours, Lieut. Chas. N. Wells, V. E. C., Camp Sheridan, Remount Station, Montgomery, Ala.

Editor of the Advocate:—Through you I wish to thank the good people of Licking county for the medal so kindly sent me.—Yours faithfully, Pvt. W. Miller Tafel, Bat. C, First Regt., O. F. A., Ft. Benj. Harrison, Ind.

Editor of the Advocate:—I received your letter today and was more than pleased with the medal which I received also. It affords me immense pleasure to return to my hearty thanks to you and also to the people of Licking county, who have taken such an interest in the boys of Licking county who have answered "the call to arms." I feel very proud of my medal indeed, and am very sorry to be unable to send any number of boys of "Old Licking" that they may receive medals also. I shall always wear my medal, and again thanking the people of Licking county for the interest that they have taken in the soldiers and sailors—I am, respectfully yours, Matthew McBride, Co. D, 36th Inf., Ft. Snelling, Minn.

Editor of the Advocate:—Received your service medal today for which I wish to thank you and the people of Licking county. I appreciate the gift very much and will wear it all the time that I may be gone. I like the navy as much as I have seen of it and have been gone almost three months. I left Newark June 25th on my way to Cincinnati and was sent from there to Newport, R. I., spending three weeks of my time in training. From there I have been sent to Portsmouth, N. H., and have been here since. I am in the Portsmouth navy yards on the Southern, a receiving ship. Have been expecting to be transferred for the past month but no such good luck yet. Almost all the boys want to go to sea after hearing some of the sailors we have seen who have been across. It is very nice here as we get every fourth night to go ashore and return at 8 o'clock the next morning. We only do guard duty every fifth day lasting only 24 hours. It gets cold at night but have plenty of clothing to keep us warm. Will send you all the names of Newark boys that I know later, when I get their addresses. Thanking you once more for the medal.—Yours truly, W. A. Mitchell, Portsmouth, N. H.

Editor of the Advocate:—Received the bronze medal and I take pleasure in thanking the people of Licking county for their token of appreciation to us boys. I belong to the Motor Truck company, No. 118, as assistant truckster. We expect to leave for another training camp in Texas soon.—Again thanking you all, yours truly, Sergt. Locke E. Koonits (of Vanatta) Ft. Crook, Neb.

Editor of the Advocate:—I have received the medal sent by you and am greatly pleased with it. Will surely carry it through France. Thanking you and the Licking county friends very kindly.—Chas. W. Remick (Johnstown) Hdq. Co. 166th U. S. I., Camp Mills, Hempstead, N. Y.

THE DUTY OF GERMAN-AMERICANS TO GERMANY.

(By Gustavus Ohlinger.)
"To speak German is to remain German; to cause others to speak German is to make them into Germans."
In this way Ludwig Fulda, one of the most prominent of modern German playwrights and journalists summarized his observations in the United States. That he was giving expression to more than merely personal opinion is evidenced by the stern measures adopted by Germany for the purpose of establishing the use of German in the Polish provinces and in Alsace—by the decrees which forbade French even on signs and on tombstones and the orders making it a crime to impart religious instruction in the Polish tongue.

The propaganda for the German language has always been a well-recognized phase of imperial Kulturpolitik. It was regarded as an important means for establishing German influence in foreign lands, for undermining national unity, and for keeping German immigrants in solid blocks which could be used as convenient man-power in the German colonies. As one of the leaders in the Pan-German movement expressed it years ago, "the importance of Germany in the future will depend on two things—first, the number of persons who are politically subjects to the empire, and second, the number of those throughout the world who speak the German language."

That the Kaiser's sympathizers in the United States have taken this course to heart is borne out by the various efforts which have been made to establish the German language in our public schools ever since the Pan-German idea came to active consciousness here some twenty years ago. During this period the number of high school pupils taking instruction in German has risen from 58,000 to 312,000. Even more marked has been the increase in this direction in the grade schools.

Now that the events of the last few months have taught Americans to look upon this apparently innocent educational movement in the same light in which it has always been held by Germans both here and in Germany, it is small wonder that they will have none of it. German language instruction has been abolished in all the grade schools of Toledo; in Cleveland it has been eliminated from the first four grades; in Baltimore from all the grades; in Milwaukee American children will no longer have the advantage of a bi-lingual education in the first and second grades, and even Chicago has torn from its spelling books the nauseous adulation of the Kaiser which the exponents of Pan-German policies had caused to be inserted.

That this aversion for everything German will be intensified with time is inevitable. The danger is that it will attach to much that is admirable and that we could adopt with advantage. Our civilization will thereby be made the poorer. One of the great tragedies of the war is that the evil ambition of the Hohenzollerns has laid its foul hands upon the sacred heritage of the German people and impregnated it with the poison of its contact, so that for centuries it will provoke the loathing of the world.

These consequences can in some degree be averted by our citizens of German birth. It rests with them to prove to us and to the world that a wide chasm separates the Germany of Schiller, Goethe and Lessing from the monster state created by the Hohenzollerns and their servants; that the genius that peopled the woods and dales with the fairies of childhood has nothing in common with the demon that ravaged Belgium, France and Poland; that the German spirit is, indeed, free and not sunk in hopeless servility to unworthy masters. But not by lukewarm allegiance to our country, not by half-hearted support of our cause, not by carping criticism of things American, not by secret gratification over the reverses of our allies, can they bring this about. The Turnverein, the Liederkreis, the Stadtverband, the Nationalbund and Deutschunterricht must all be forgotten. The story of American liberty, from its foundations in Magna Carta to the present time, must displace all that is the subject of their propaganda; everything that will contribute to our overwhelming victory must be the object of their activity. Through such men, after the war, will the benefits of German science, art and literature be transmitted. By such men alone can the odium which the Hohenzollern dynasty has drawn upon all things German be averted, and the treasures of Germany's past be preserved for the world.

A NEW SIDELIGHT ON STOCKHOLM.

(Columbus Dispatch.)
The revelations of Swedish cooperation with the German minister to Argentina in the transmission of military information to Berlin throws a new sidelight on the persistent proposition to have a peace conference in Stockholm of the affected elements in all the allied countries. The repeated statement that the proposition had origin in Germany and was meant to serve German ends in the war appears to be strengthened by the discovery of so close an official alliance with the German government. If Swedish authorities would serve Germany in the matter of communication, why would they not serve her in the making of a peace such as she wants? There was, doubtless, enough evidence of the help Sweden was giving before this latest revelation was made—enough to make England, France and the United States antagonistic to the conference and unwilling to grant passports to men who wished to go as delegates. But it was not so well known to the people as to the governments. Now that Sweden has been caught in this underhanded conduct, there will be less impetus to the governments that refused to countenance this conference. It will be realized that they knew that they were doing when they denied the passports.

"FREE RIGA."

(New York World.)
Thanks to himself and Prince Leopold, with the faithful aid of "the Lord of Creation," the German emperor says "Riga is free." It has "always endeavored to maintain its German origin" and now is "liberated from long oppression."
To the non-German people of Riga, fleeing from the deliverer, "freedom" seems an odd word for the "steelhead" rule of a Mitteleuropa oligarchy that speaks of subject races as "dunge-folk" to plumb under and grips its own race in a despotism against which the best men of German blood have protested or rebelled for three generations.

But the Kaiser's words betray, beneath the bombast, anxiety. With his "storm of jubilation," his praise of "the glory of our arms" and "joyful hearts" which must be "strange hearts if indeed they are joyful in this welter of blood, he may hint that the end will come soon," thanks the "good old German God" for "daily bread," so many weighed ounces barely to sustain life.

Strip facts of rhetoric; what are they? In the west the Germans are being pushed back with terrific losses on both sides. Trieste is in danger, 30,000 prisoners are made by the Italians, even more loudly than Germany the dual monarchy demands peace. President Wilson's reply to the pope has set German democracy thinking. Turkey and Bulgaria are exhausted. "Riga is free," "freedom," as it could have been at any time within the past year. But Germans are warned that the "glorious army" may not "free" any more of Russia for the present. Maybe one "victory" is enough to float a new loan.

AS MAINE GOES.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
"As Maine goes so goes the nation" has been a favorite partisan axiom, stoutly affirmed and as stoutly denied. Advocates of woman suffrage will not register a vigorous protest against the acceptance of any such dictum. For Maine has turned down suffrage with a resounding majority.
By a vote of nearly two to one, it is indicated, Maine electors on Monday defeated a proposed constitutional amendment to enfranchise women. The decision of the legislature in favor of universal suffrage, won after forty years' effort on the part of the women, is thus reversed. Men will continue to monopolize Maine politics.
Presidential suffrage, it is expected, will be an issue in Ohio in November; a suffrage amendment is before the voters of New York upon the recommendation of the state assembly. If Maine really points the way by reference to suffrage, as it is often claimed that it points the way in partisan elections, this fall will be a gloomy one in American suffrage circles.
But suffrage as it was voted on in Maine and will be in Ohio and elsewhere is a state issue, subject to a great variety of local political cross currents. Maine is not to be accepted as a suffrage barometer.

DRAFT ALIENS.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Every man has obligations to some government. He has no right to claim the protection of two and render service to neither. There are in this country a large number of subjects of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia who would have to serve those countries in the army if they were at home. They come here and enjoy all the protection of our law. If this is not sufficient they are ready to appeal for protection to their own government. But they escape military service to their own governments by being here, and they try to escape military service here by claiming that they are aliens.
More than this. They not only seek to escape the dangers and hardships of military service, but they want to get the jobs that our own citizens have to leave in order to go forth and fight for their own country and for the countries of these resident aliens who, by claiming citizenship in one country and maintaining a residence in another, seek to avoid the service of both. It is high time that this dodging between two countries should be stopped.

The senate has very properly passed—and the house should at once concur—a joint resolution drafting all aliens who have lived in the country one year, except Germans, persons exempt by treaty, and the subjects of Germany's allies. Subjects of the allies and neutrals would under the resolution be allowed to leave the country in 90 days. This is a just resolution. No man ought to be better off by reason of being an alien. If he has been here a year it is time he became a citizen subject to the burdens as well as the privileges of a citizen, and, if not willing to do that, he should go back to his own country.

British and Italian and Russian subjects to the number of more than a million are now living in this country, beyond the reach of the government to which they profess allegiance. They are unwilling to fight for the country in which they are living, but prefer to remain here, profiting by the fact that American citizens are leaving their employment, voluntarily or under the selective draft, to fight for their country. If the house will do its duty these international slackers will have to choose which government they will serve. They may fight in our army, or they may get out of the country within 90 days. If they go back to their native countries they will have to serve in the army, and where else can they go?
It is time the privilege of having two nationalities for protection and none for service was abolished. We expect the house to concur with the senate.

OHIO ON WHEELS.

(Pittsburg Gazette-Times.)
So many automobiles bearing Ohio license tags are to be seen in the streets of Pittsburg some persons have wondered if the Buckeye license fee is lower than the Keystone. Suspicions are unjust. Ohioans are prosperous and are having a good time while the times are good. The average of motor owners in Ohio is very high and they are making the best of their opportunity to travel. Not only in Pittsburg but wherever you go in the eastern part of the country, and presumably it is so in the western part also, you will find more Ohioans touring than people from any other state. The Lincoln Highway from Pittsburg to New York is alive with them and at the seashore resorts they are barely less numerous than mosquitoes. Along the scenic roads of the mountains of New York and New England the yellow tag that distinguishes the Ohio car flashes everywhere. One gets the impression that our neighbors on the west are getting more out of life than are the people of other states. They are seeing the country and seeing it in a way impossible without the aid of the automobile. More people should follow the lead of the Ohioans. Touring is great sport and highly beneficial to the tourists. Beside, it is good advertising for a state to have a lot of its people driving through distant communities.

A FINE STATEMENT.

(Ohio State Journal.)
Secretary Baker's address to the Ohio bankers was the finest statement of the philosophy of the war that we have read or heard. It was so quiet, simple and sincere in every expression that it could almost soften the heart of a wartime pacifist. We had supposed that Mr. Baker was one of the better class of Cleveland politicians, but he is above that and belongs to the statesman class. There wasn't a boast or a bit of passionate appeal in his speech. It was all as even-tempered as the beatitudes. He is no stenographic orator. His words are soft and pleasant, but they go deep and set one to thinking. One was never so satisfied with this country's entering the war with Germany as he was after hearing Mr. Baker's reasons for it. There was not a word of hate or boast in his speech, but how he did make a fellow want to grab a musket and go to shooting. We had been hoping that Colonel Wilson would some day put Colonel Roosevelt in Mr. Baker's place, but we doubt if there would be much improvement.

GERMAN-AMERICAN VIEWS.

(New York Staats-Zeitung.)
The Luxburg case shows that the class of German "diplomats" who can, or will, not learn anything has not yet disappeared. The apprentice of Dr. Zimmermann are still to be found in the German diplomatic service, much as it has shrunk numerically. Despatches such as those of Count Luxburg, accredited to Buenos Aires, are verily unbelievable; his advice so monstrous, other remarks contained in the dispatches so fabulously void of tact that one must regard his action as incomprehensible. This man is seemingly out of his wits. He does not even seem to comprehend his responsibility to ward his own country, and he is lacking as well in moral sense as in the ordinary judgment of the average human being endowed with intelligence.

Effort Is Beneficial.
The easy task is seldom beneficial. It requires no special effort for its accomplishment and soon becomes merely a matter of course. A Good Example.
Georgia is "a long way to go" to get a slogan for democracy, but down there the farmers have adopted as a watchword for the occasion "Nail a Plaz to Your Plow." That's the thing for everybody to do. We do not all have plows, but we all have something for which the plow may be said to stand. We can nail a flag to it, whatever it is and dedicate it to the service of the country just as truly, though not on as high level of sacrifice, don't forget that—as the man who carries a gun and defends the flag on the field of battle.—Minneapolis Tribune.

That James Fenimore Cooper was born September 15, 1792? He was born at Burlington, New Jersey, but while he was an infant the family moved to the south-eastern shore of Otsego Lake, New York, where they founded the village of Cooperstown. He entered Yale in 1802 but did not graduate, the faculty dismissing him in his junior year. He entered the navy as midshipman in 1805, remaining in the service six years. He married in 1811 and one day remarked to his wife that he thought he could write a better novel than the one he was reading. She challenged him to try and the result was a book called "Precaution," which was soon forgotten. His friends urged him to try again and "The Spy" was then written. This was the beginning of his brilliant career as writer of fiction as he produced in rapid succession "The Pilot," "The Pioneers," "Deerfoot," "The Pathfinder," "Last of the Mohicans," and others. He died at Cooperstown in 1851.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read every thing without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything became clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid take the eye two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very reasonable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any drug druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in this city by T. J. Evans and other druggists.

BAIRD LANDS FIRE BUG AT MT. LIBERTY; GETS CONFESSION

Seeking to burn to death several men whom he accused of paying attention to his wife, Howard Keller, Knox county, is said to have set fire to the barn of J. B. Owens, near Mt. Liberty. The structure was burned and communicated with the barn of J. B. Phillips, which also was destroyed. This statement was gleaned from the confession of Howard Keller, young farmer, living at Mt. Liberty, following an investigation conducted by Deputy Fire Marshals John Baird of Newark, and George Leonard of Columbus.

According to Baird, Keller made a full confession of his deed and was placed under arrest, giving a preliminary hearing at Mt. Vernon, and bound over to the grand jury under bond in the sum of $500.

Both barns were valued at $1500, and the loss was complete.

Keller confessed, the officers say, that he had been following five men who were said to have been paying attention to his wife. He thought they went into the Owens barn and thinking he had them in a trap he set fire to the structure. They were not in the barn.

The sympathy of the community, the officers say, is strongly with Keller, and the feeling against the men paying attentions to his wife is at a high pitch. It is claimed that all of them are married men with families.

GRANVILLE WOMEN PLAN DINNER FOR COUNTY SOLDIERS

(Special to Advocate.)

Granville, Sept. 15.—The dinner to be given as a farewell to the soldier boys of the Licking county 40 per cent increment who mobilize in Granville next Wednesday night, has touched the popular fancy and offers of help from women's organizations and individuals are pouring in to the chairman of the A. F. F. W. committee having it in charge, Mrs. J. D. Thompson. It is to be given in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church and while there is no attempt to turn it into a formal banquet there will be lacking no good thing to make it a memorable occasion to the honor guests. As an expression of good will and love from the home folks it will be as complete as circumstances permit. Mrs. Thompson has been in conference with the draft board, and all arrangements will be according to official orders. Covers will be laid for 62 drafted men, 10 alternates and three members of the board. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock p. m., following the mobilization ceremonies at 5:30, in which the women people are invited to join. The departure from Granville on the 20th will be the same as before, and as many as can do so are urged to be at the 11:30 a. m. car, to see the boys off on the first stage of the journey which lands them in Newark, there to board the 1:45 B. & O. train for Chillicothe via Columbus.

The sudden death, on Friday afternoon of Mrs. Ella McCarty Roberts at her home in Park Drive, has shocked and saddened the entire community, where for years she has been known and loved for her many beautiful qualities of mind and heart. Apparently in ordinary health, she sank unconsciously to the side of her bed about 3:30, where physician and neighbors did all in their power to restore her. But her heart failed to respond and after two hours she passed peacefully away. Her only daughter, Miss Mary Roberts, who is a teacher in the Columbus schools, was already on her way home for the week-end and her only son, E. C. Roberts arrived last night from a business trip.

The deceased joined the Baptist church in 1894, shortly after the family had come to Granville from Columbus, and for nearly a quarter century she has been prominent in every good work in church and village. Her husband and three daughters were taken by death some years ago and beside this son and daughter, she is survived by several grand children and a brother who made his home with her. The funeral will be held on Monday.

Services in the Granville churches tomorrow will be conducted by their respective pastors. The morning service of Dr. Millard Brelsford of the Baptist church will be "The Reigning King." At 7 p. m. a patriotic service will be held in recognition of the young men who have joined the colors, and the pastor will speak on "A Christian Soldier." A special invitation is extended to G. A. R. veterans, young men under enlistment awaiting call, wives and parents of those who have joined the colors.

Rev. Otto Giesen will preach at the M. E. church. Morning topic: "Where to Look for God." At 7 p. m. reports from the canvassers to the congregation.

Rev. E. D. Barnes, pastor of the Presbyterian church will preach for the morning service on: "The Hidden Life." For the evening worship he will deliver the third of a series of sermons on the Twenty Third Psalm.

On Monday Rev. E. D. Barnes accompanied by T. M. Williams will go to Warsaw to attend the meetings of the Presbytery.

The students of Denison and Shepardson held the annual "hello" meetings last night, where the new men got acquainted, and "new" girls meet the "old" girls in a delightful informal way. The men assembled in the Y. M. C. A. rooms in Cleveland Hall, and the girls in the parlors of Stone Hall. At the close of the meeting the familiar college and echoes of the village, but the townspeople do not mind a little thing like that—rather enjoy it, in fact!

The Ford truck owned and driven by L. R. Shumaker, a truck gardener residing on Clouse Lane, collided with the motor cycle owned and ridden by Edgar Pendleton yesterday afternoon at the corner of Broadway and Main. CONVENIENT KITCHENS.

How to Adapt Space to Your Needs is the Right Idea.

First and foremost, adapt your kitchen to your needs. A model kitchen is not model for you if you do not. Investigate what other people are doing, listen to the advice of the experts, but decide for yourself.

Don't wait until you can build a new kitchen or make over the old one, but get the most out of what you have. A little readjustment, the installing of such simple devices as dish driers and drainers, and so on, will help things along mightily. There is a difference between accepting things as they are and putting what you have to the best uses. One is unimelligent resignation, the other may be real efficiency. All the patent devices on the market will not make yours a livable and workable kitchen if you do not use your brains in their disposition.

Behind the Scenes with Mary Pickford

AN "EASY AUDIENCE."

CONSULTING DIRECTOR DE MILLE.

OUTDOOR WORK WHETS THE APPETITE.

READY FOR THE NOUN IN "A ROMANCE OF THE REDWOODS."

DISCUSSING A "BIT" WITH MA.

MOST every one has seen Mary Pickford on the screen in photoplays of wide variety, and many pictures have been published disclosing "America's Sweetheart" in different forms of recreation while away from the studio. However, like every other film player, Mary finds quite a little time for herself at the studio between scenes, when stage hands are preparing the next set for screening. A peep at the popular Little Arcturion star in such moments is here disclosed.

Usually Mother Pickford is on hand to consult with her daughter on the action or the wardrobe of the forthcoming scene. Then again, there are various matters to be discussed with the director. When Miss Pickford is not otherwise occupied one of the members of the cast usually takes the opportunity of entertaining her with a new story, for, as expressed in theatricals, she is an "easy audience" and always prepared to laugh at a witicism. Out on "location" work in the open results in frequent consultations with the lunch box for a nibble at a tasty bit.

GRAND

ALICE JOYCE

and HARRY MOREY

At the Grand, Monday and Tuesday.

Joyce and Harry Morey, is one of the greatest suspense ever shown on the screen. The heroine is the daughter of a clergyman and is engaged to marry a young chemist. The latter, by the provisions of his father's will, is barred from marrying until after he has successfully completed certain research work. He suffers a collapse, due to overwork and the love that he is denied. The girl, after a tremendous struggle, decides that her duty is to be at his side, wed or not, and so, defying convention and the tongue of scandal, she goes to live in his house. The play is masterfully handled; is just as original in its conception as "Within the Law," and should take rank with it.

ALHAMBRA

Sunday. An Edison production, released through George Kline's K. E. S. E. distributing organization, is a picture of the famous story of that name which appeared in the Sunday Evening Post.

John Drew Bennett and Viola Cain are co-stars in this photodrama. John Drew Bennett, who is a godson of the famous actor, John Drew, will be remembered for his remarkable work on the stage and before the screen.

Monday and Tuesday. Miss Edith Goodrich, celebrated beauty of the stage and screen, who appears in the Mutual photoplay, "Reputation," has in her famous collection of jewels an "endowed necklace."

It happened like this: Miss Goodrich coveted a precious necklace. Although she is reputed to be one of the wealthiest women of the stage, the expenditure of $75,000 for a single necklace made her name. That day a committee from Logansport, Ind., her birthplace, called to solicit a subscription to an endowment fund for a local hospital.

The same afternoon as she walked down Fifth avenue she glanced at a placard exploiting the "dancer-pearl" idea.

The next morning, Miss Goodrich held a conference with her broker. She bought up $50,000 worth of securities. The income from this investment she decided to set aside for the necklace, a pearl at a time. A majority of her securities turned out to be "war babies." Her profits in her holdings of Bethlehem steel alone were sufficient to complete the necklace, which cost the full $75,000.

AUDITORIUM

Theda Bara, popular Fox star, is the Auditorium attraction today, and she is shown in the super-deluxe feature, "Heart and Soul," founded on Sir Rider Haggard's "Jess." It is said to be one of the best photoplays that this star has so far offered, and in it she has the support of a well-balanced Fox cast, which includes Harry Hilliard, handsome leading man of the Fox company. Mr. Hilliard perhaps is better known to those who have seen the June Caprice earlier features, as he worked with her in all of her first productions. Claire Whitney and others help make "Heart and Soul" a wonderful feature. The scenes were made at St. Augustine, Fla., and to guard against water snakes and other reptiles, elaborate precautions had to be made. During the action many pretty scenic places are shown. With this feature today, the Pathe-Hearst News is seen, in it some of the latest war news and many other interesting events are seen in this number.

Sunday's Program

Ladies, Gentlemen and Kids—(must not forget the kids, for they are always welcome at our playhouse, and for a little jittery, too)—

Permit us to announce for tomorrow (Sunday), Bessie Love, the demure, the gentle, the sweet Triangle star, in "A Sister of Six." In this, this little star, who a short time before the picture was made, was going to school in Los Angeles with little thought of becoming a motion-picture star, has a part that has been conceived and then moulded to offer her full opportunity to show every facet of her histrionic ability. As the title intimates, the six claiming her as sister, are children ranging from four years to, perhaps, 10 (and you sure must see these pretty little Triangle kiddies, for they are really wonderful little kids), depending on her as their little mother. The picture is set in California, in the delightful atmosphere of 1860, when the girls wore hoops and pantalettes, and children wore, Kate Greenaway and Sandford and Morton costumes. The play is exciting, many of the different scenes being thrilling battles between Mexican brigands, soldiers of the United States cavalry being shown, and it is a picture that is sure to please every picture-fan that should visit the Auditorium tomorrow. As an extra added feature, the two-reel Keystone comedy, "Ambrose As a Vampire," with 2000 laughs promised. If its real amusement—amusement that is bound to offset the worries and cares you, perhaps, have had the past week, and you wish to get a new start for the coming week, we would advise a trip to the Auditorium, Sunday. Come early, as the crowds are sure to be on hand. And, by the way, remember we have a concert orchestra that will send you away with music humming through your entire body.

"The Little American"

Mary Pickford's latest production, "The Little American," that is to be shown at the Auditorium, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has been aptly termed, "The Star-Spangled Banner of photoplay art."

Readily conceded to be America's favorite daughter, "Our Mary" offers a most fitting characterization of the girl from the U. S. A. in a subject that has particular bearings on the great international complications. In addition to this, the fact that the genius of the American motion-picture art, Cecil B. DeMille, gives to the production the additional merit of his best efforts, makes this a most potent factor in the annals of the photoplay.

One of the big scenes, and one that was real danger to the star and many other players of the production, is the scene depicting views in the luxurious ballroom of the ocean liner when it was torpedoed, created a sensation even among the hardened members of the film-producing circles around Los Angeles, where the picture was produced.

At the Lasky studio, where this scene was staged under the personal direction of Cecil B. DeMille, the entire plant ceased activities to witness the affair, and among the spectators were many well-known film people, including Douglas Fairbanks, Geraldine Farrar, John Emerson and Mrs. Pickford.

The set was built in an immense watertank measuring 50x100 feet, and showed the wonderful ballroom of the "Veritania" with all its lavish furnishings and crowded with fashionable people in evening dress. At the command of Director DeMille, the ten cameramen began to grind, a large orchestra played a lively dance, and soon Miss Pickford was in the midst of a scene of great merriment. Just as the festivities were at their height an explosion that seemed only too realistic, but which, as the film will show, had the desired effect, shook the entire set and immediately one end of the floor rapidly began to sink into the water. Chairs and tables toppled over and slid down the floor to where men and women fought and screamed. Wash-bowl in water, Miss Pickford was picked up by a sturdy young fellow who struggled toward the stairs with her in his arms just as the immense grand piano crashed into the corner where they had been standing. Gowns were torn from backs, men fought with each other, and women screamed in actual terror as parts of the heavy mirrors, walls and ceiling tumbled down upon them. No one thought that the scene would turn out to be one of real danger to this extent, and even the spectators were screaming with excitement.

Auditorium Notes

Manager Fenberg announces a few of the good things to be seen at his theater soon in the way of great picture features—Mme. Petrova in "The Law of the Land," Billie Burke in "The Mysterious Terry," Sessue Hayakawa in "Hashimura Toga," George M. Cohan in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," George Beban in "Last in Transit," Vivian Martin in "The Little Miss Optimist," Virginia Pearson in "The Wrath of Love," Pauline Frederick in "Doubled-Crossed," The new Paramount-Black-Sennett comedies, the first being "Kissing Her Hero," with "Slim" Summerville, Polly Moran, Ben Turpin, and a host of funny people. Mack Sennett, known as the producer of the famous Keystone comedies, new with Paramount, is the master funmaker of America, and his comedies, together with "Fatty" Arbuckle and his funmakers, are seen exclusively at the Auditorium.

The capture of men known to be guilty of espionage against the United States is effected in the twelfth episode of "Patria," with Mrs. Vernon Castle as the star, that is shown at the Auditorium every Wednesday in connection with the feature picture of that day. The twelfth episode is full of thrilling moments, most of the scenes being on the Mexican border.

The second annual style show is announced for the Auditorium on next Tuesday and Wednesday. Many will remember the success of the style show given at this playhouse by numerous local merchants last fall. The same concerns are interested again (they have announcements in the columns of this paper today), and the latest in New York fashions are promised at this show. Mary Pickford, known to all as the world's greatest screen star, is seen in "The Little American," in connection with the style show, and on Wednesday Mrs. Vernon Castle in "Patria," is an added feature.

"Vampire Ambrose," the two-reel Keystone comedy that is seen at the Auditorium Sunday, is said to be filled with exciting and most laughable comedy stunts. These comedies are a treat to the Auditorium patrons, and this one is an added feature to the big five-reel drama, "A Sister of Six," in which Bessie Love, petite Little Triangle star, is seen.

A special musical program is promised Sunday amusement-seekers at the Auditorium. Prof. Cochran having received an entire lot of new music from New York yesterday. The music, as you all know, is a feature at this house and Mr. Cochran expects to keep right up-to-the-minute on the latest musical hits. A great attraction is Al H. Wilson, America's singing comedian, and this season more so than ever, since he will appear in a new military Irish song-play, written by Theodore Burt Sayre, entitled "The Irish Fifteenth." Imagine falling in love with the daughter of "The Roman"—your Latin professor who had caught you in many a scrape and filled your soul with awe at the mere sight. Such a plight is Jack Pickford's in "The Varmint," a Paramount picture, a screen adaptation of Owen Johnson's celebrated story which originally appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. "The Varmint" will be shown at the Auditorium theater on next Thursday and Friday. The Auditorium announces for an early appearance, Nell O'Brien and his minstrels, all newly-equipped and organized for their sixth annual tour. Mr. O'Brien has always brought to this city some of the best minstrel organizations it has ever had, and there seems every reason to believe that the show he offers this year will maintain the high standard established by this most popular of all minstrel comedians.

OF U-BOAT FIGHT
WITH U. S. CONVOY

Akron, Sept. 15.—An uncensored account of a battle between five American transports, seven U. S. destroyers and German submarines has been received from a Summit county man who was on one of the ships that took part in the battle.

The letter reveals details of an engagement that has never been made public by the naval department.

Five submarines were sunk and the American ships escaped without damage, according to the letter.

The battle took place on August 20 near a French seaport, which is named. The name of the port was deleted by the Times, a local paper which prints the story and other deletions made to conform to the voluntary censorship rules prescribed by the administration.

The important fact is that the letter gives news that the public has never had. The man who wrote the letter is considered strictly reliable.

Following is the part of the letter that deals with the battle:

"I haven't told you about our battle, have I? If I were of a literary frame of mind perhaps I could tell you about it in such a manner that you could appreciate all the thrills and escapes experienced without going too fully into detail.

"I'll endeavor to give you a general idea of what it is to be in a battle with submarines.

"On Monday, August 20, about 9 o'clock in the morning five transports and their convoys of seven destroyers and two aeroplanes were just passing preparatory to entering the harbor (a French seaport) about noon.

"Six blasts on the whistle warned us a sub had been sighted and commanded us to go to the life boats. There had been so many drills in this that everyone thought this was just another 'false alarm'.

"Before we got to the boats one of the guns on this ship fired, breaking all the windows. Everyone cheered. When we got there we could see oil and hair padding floating on the water, so our gunner got one, which caused the cheer.

"One of the other transports fired and raised one about half out of the water, but as far as we know did no material damage.

"A destroyer discharged a depth mine, which registered another sub. A transport rammed another, cutting it almost in two.

"There were two more sunk by shrapnel shells, making a total of five sunk in about an hour. It was reported that Germans could be seen in the water, but I didn't see a one.

"I did see one shell tear off the whole coning tower, and then bubbles at the spot.

"All this time the 12 ships were maneuvering around, always trying to edge a little closer to port. You see they kept turning so if a sub comes up and sees the ship, by the time they get down and submerge and fire the torpedo the ship will be out of range.

"I could see two torpedoes that just missed their mark. If either one had struck, about 1,600 men would have had a ducking. It was very exciting to watch the firing and the aeroplanes dropping bombs on what they thought were subs.

"The official report, posted on the ship, said five subs were sunk and many German survivors picked up from the sea in the afternoon.

"Of course, there wasn't a great deal of danger of any Americans being drowned, even though torpedoed, but I tell you there were some scared ones on board. I guess I was too excited or interested or something to be scared, but after it was all over I was nervous."

SOFT DRINK BUSINESS GROWING, SAYS MUEHLMAN

Coshocton, O., Sept. 15.—"The beer trade will soon be history," stated A. R. Arthur Muehlman, mediator for the national organization of glassworkers, in an interview granted at his home in this city.

"The bottle manufacturing plants are taking care of the soft drink bottle trade in greater volume every month, and many of the bottle facories are not taking orders for beer bottle manufacture.

The mediator said that many glass plants were operating on government war orders, making glassware for the medical department. The glass industry was said to be in the best shape in the history of the organization.

SOFT DRINK BUSINESS GROWING, SAYS MUEHLMAN

Coshocton, O., Sept. 15.—"The beer trade will soon be history," stated A. R. Arthur Muehlman, mediator for the national organization of glassworkers, in an interview granted at his home in this city.

"The bottle manufacturing plants are taking care of the soft drink bottle trade in greater volume every month, and many of the bottle fac-

ories are not taking orders for beer bottle manufacture.

The mediator said that many glass plants were operating on government war orders, making glassware for the medical department. The glass industry was said to be in the best shape in the history of the organization.

Six days of the coming week and four of the one following are to be given over to September Grand Circuit racing in Columbus. The meeting opens Monday and is to have a daily program even on Saturday. It there is no weather interference, the final card will be raced on Thursday, September 27, and an additional day for getting on to Lexington provided.

It is possible to list here all the events of the Columbus speed carnival, for which no less than three hundred and fifty separate and distinct horses have been named. For the opening on Monday, September 17, the 2:10 trot, the Horse Review Futurity for two-year trotters and the King stake for 2:05 pacers are programmed.

Tuesday, September 18, is Hoster-Columbus day, bringing with it the noted $10,000 trotting stake race. The $3,000 horse review three-year-old trotting futurity comes the same day, as does the 2:07 pace.

Free-for-all trotters, including the great St. Frisco and Mabel Trask, race on Wednesday, Sept. 19. Free-for-all pacers are to have it out twice, first on Thursday, September 20, and again on Thursday, September 27. On every day of the second week, there will be a stake event.

"On Monday, August 20, about 9 o'clock in the morning five transports and their convoys of seven destroyers and two aeroplanes were just passing preparatory to entering the harbor (a French seaport) about noon.

"Six blasts on the whistle warned us a sub had been sighted and commanded us to go to the life boats. There had been so many drills in this that everyone thought this was just another 'false alarm'.

"Before we got to the boats one of the guns on this ship fired, breaking all the windows. Everyone cheered. When we got there we could see oil and hair padding floating on the water, so our gunner got one, which caused the cheer.

"One of the other transports fired and raised one about half out of the water, but as far as we know did no material damage.

"A destroyer discharged a depth mine, which registered another sub. A transport rammed another, cutting it almost in two.

"There were two more sunk by shrapnel shells, making a total of five sunk in about an hour. It was reported that Germans could be seen in the water, but I didn't see a one.

"I did see one shell tear off the whole coning tower, and then bubbles at the spot.

"All this time the 12 ships were maneuvering around, always trying to edge a little closer to port. You see they kept turning so if a sub comes up and sees the ship, by the time they get down and submerge and fire the torpedo the ship will be out of range.

"I could see two torpedoes that just missed their mark. If either one had struck, about 1,600 men would have had a ducking. It was very exciting to watch the firing and the aeroplanes dropping bombs on what they thought were subs.

"The official report, posted on the ship, said five subs were sunk and many German survivors picked up from the sea in the afternoon.

"Of course, there wasn't a great deal of danger of any Americans being drowned, even though torpedoed, but I tell you there were some scared ones on board. I guess I was too excited or interested or something to be scared, but after it was all over I was nervous."
